Hi Mr. Babson,

I have attached information regarding the PAVE. One document is supplied by the PAVE and provides some of the benefits of the exam. The second document is some relevant information regarding the states currently NOT accepting the PAVE and a few details highlighting some pros of the exam.

I am currently in my 6th semester (the equivalent of my 3rd year of veterinary school) at Ross University. The academic program at Ross is equivalent to US schools as evidenced by the fact that the American Veterinary Medical Association is coming to inspect campus on January 16-20, 2011 to verify that the program meets accreditation standards. This is a good indicator of the rigorous curriculum and competency of our program.

After I finish my 7th semester at Ross in St. Kitts, I will go to an accredited US veterinary school to finish my clinical rotations and will have to take the national accreditation exam (NAVLE), that all veterinarians must take to be licensed to practice. Once successfully completing these steps, I will be eligible to practice in all states currently accepting the PAVE. If I would like to work in states that do not accept the PAVE, I will have to take the ECFVG. As stated in the attached literature, the PAVE and ECFVG examinations are very similar in their principles, however the cost and timeline for completion of the PAVE is much more cost effective and timely versus the ECFVG. For example, because I am a Ross student, the PAVE (costing $1200) waives the practical part of their exam process because I come from such a reputed institution. However, the ECFVG (costing $7000 plus travel expenses) has a long waiting list to even apply for the test and requires that both a written and practical part be completed.

From a personal perspective, accepting the PAVE is a very promising step for me as a future veterinarian. I grew up in New Hampshire and would like the opportunity to return home and give back to my community. Unfortunately, as the current NH law states, I will not be able to return to NH and practice with having taken only the PAVE. Rather I will have to take the ECFVG in addition to the PAVE.

I appreciate that New Hampshire is taking the initiative to investigate the PAVE as an acceptable examination to demonstrate my veterinary proficiency. I look forward to being able to my home state and share my knowledge. If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact me personally or go to the Ross University (www.rossvet.edu.kn) or PAVE (<http://www.aavsb.org/PAVE>) websites.

Thank you for your time.

Lin:

We will be hearing the PAVE bill on the 18th of Jan. Could you or would you please write a letter addressed to Environment and Agriculture Committee and mailed to me (Box 10 O-town 03864) so that I can read it into the record.

The letter should detail the hardship which the tests you are now required to take puts on you vs. the test (PAVE) that the other 40 states use.

BTW: The bill has the support of the State vet and the state's Vet Assoc. It should pass out of my committee without much trouble. It will go to the House late Jan, early Feb.

When I get the bill's number, I will email it to you and you can follow it on the State's web site.

Thanks.

PAVE PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS 2010

- Recognized in 33 jurisdictions
- Over 700 licensed veterinarians with PAVE certificates practicing veterinary medicine in the United States
- A reliable program, setting a high standard for international veterinary graduates who seek licensure in the United States
- Candidates must pass the rigorous Qualifying Examination, a test of basic science knowledge, prior to entering the clinical phase of the program
- PAVE examinations (QE and VCSA) are developed and administered by the National Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners.
- PAVE candidates are accepted for their clinical training by nearly all AVMA-accredited colleges of veterinary medicine. They are trained and evaluated in the same manner as regularly enrolled students.
- By also recognizing PAVE, licensing boards increase their pool of qualified licensure applicants.
- PAVE is your program. AAVSB Member Boards have the opportunity for direct input into the organization and its programs through open committee meetings and the Annual Conference.

Key Points with the PAVE Examination:

- PAVE is a challenging exam, testing the same things as ECFVG, but is much more accessible
- 1/6 of the cost
- Since the ECFVG is only offered twice a year, most Ross grads have to wait 6 months to a year before they are eligible to practice in the USA
- Asking for fair treatment as US students returning to the states to practice
- 33 jurisdictions already accepting the PAVE from foreign graduates

States not currently accepting the PAVE:

- Alabama
- Alaska
- Arkansas
- Delaware
- Florida
- Hawaii
- Indiana
- Kansas
- Kentucky
- Maryland
- Michigan
- Missouri
- Nevada
- New Hampshire
- New Mexico
- North Carolina

Honorable Robert Haefner
Environment and Agriculture Committee, Chair
Room 308, Legislative Office Building
Concord, NH 03301

Dear Chairman Haefner and Honorable Committee Members,

I apologize that I cannot attend the hearing on HB 30 AN act relative to reciprocity for licensure by the board of veterinary medicine. As an ex officio member of the Board of Veterinary Medicine (Board), RSA 332-B:3, <http://www.gencourt.state.nh.us/rsa/html/XXX/332-B/332-B-mrg.htm>, I stand in support of HB 30.

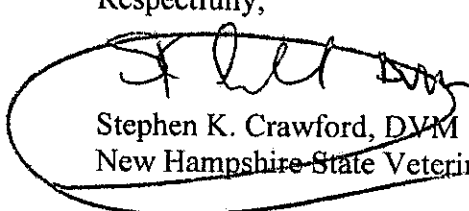

For a number of reasons, many American students attend veterinary college outside of the United States. Upon graduation from veterinary college, in addition to the national competency exam taken by graduates of American colleges of veterinary medicine, these graduates must complete an educational equivalency exam. Current statute requires these graduates to take a particular exam offered by the Educational Commission for Foreign Veterinary Graduates (ECFVG). This limited option is reflective of a point in history when this was the only equivalency assessment available. A second option now exists for graduates seeking an educational equivalency exam, Program for the Assessment of Veterinary Educational Equivalence (PAVE).

It is my understanding that there is a backlog of many months for graduates to be able to sit for the ECFVG. I believe that there is more rapid access to the PAVE exam. It is also my understanding that the cost of the examinations is approximately equal. Both ECFVG and PAVE provide reliable, suitable, and necessary assessments of the equivalency of veterinary education for potential licensees in New Hampshire.

HB 30 will expand access to necessary examinations for graduates of foreign veterinary colleges who are seeking a license to practice veterinary medicine in New Hampshire.

Thank you very much for your consideration.

Respectfully,

Stephen K. Crawford, DVM
New Hampshire State Veterinarian

STATEMENT OF INTENT

With the passage of HB 30, New Hampshire will join 33 other states in accepting the PAVE (Program for the Assessment of Veterinary Education Equivalence) examination in the licensure of veterinarians who have graduated from veterinary schools not accredited by American Veterinary Medical Associates (AVMA). The cost of this exam is drastically less than the cost of the only currently accepted examination given by the Educational Commission on Foreign Veterinary Graduates (ECFVG). This hopefully will assist the state in attracting qualified veterinarians of both large and small animals.
