Matter added to current law appears in bold italics.

Matter removed from current law appears [~~in brackets and struck through~~].

Matter which is either (a) all new or (b) repealed and reenacted appears in regular type.

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

In the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty One

AN ACT relative to project labor agreements in government contracts.

Be it Enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened:

1 1 Findings. The general court finds that open competition in governmental construction
2 contracts is necessary to promote and ensure fair competition in the award and execution of such
3 contracts. Therefore, to prevent discrimination against governmental bidders, offerors, contractors,
4 or subcontractors based upon labor affiliation or the lack thereof, the general court declares that 5 neither the state nor municipalities nor projects receiving tax abatements or tax credits, should
6 include project labor agreements as part of the competitive bid process or the award of government
7 construction contracts or government assisted construction projects.

8 2 New Subdivision; Department of Administrative Services; Project Labor Agreements in 9 Government-Assisted Construction Contracts. Amend RSA 21-I by inserting after section 86 the 10 following new subdivision:

11 Project Labor Agreements in Government-Assisted Construction Contracts

12 21-I:86-a Definitions. In this subdivision:

13 I. "Construction" means the act, trade, or process of building, erecting, constructing, adding,
14 repairing, remodeling, rehabilitating, reconstructing, altering, converting, improving, expanding, or 15 demolishing of a building, structure, facility, road, or highway, and includes the planning, designing,
16 and financing of a specific construction project.

17 II. "Governmental entity" means the state, a political subdivision, or any agency or spending 18 unit thereof.

19 III. "Government-assisted" means any project that receives a tax exemption, tax abatement
20 or tax credit under RSA 72:80-83, RSA 79-E, or RSA 162-N.

21 IV. "Project labor agreement" means any pre-hire collective bargaining agreement with one 22 or more labor organizations that establishes the terms and conditions of employment for a specific
23 construction project.

24 21-I:86-b Project Labor Agreements in Government-Assisted Contracts.

25 I. No government-assisted project, governmental entity or a construction manager acting on 26 behalf of a governmental entity by seeking a construction bid solicitation, awarding a construction
27 contract, or obligating funds to a construction contract, shall include any of the following in the bid 28 specifications, bid requests, project agreements, or any other controlling documents for the
29 construction project:

30 (a) A requirement or prohibition that a bidder, offeror, contractor, or subcontractor enter
31 into or adhere to a project labor agreement.

SB 55 - AS INTRODUCED

- Page 2 -

1 (b) A term, clause, or statement that infers, either directly or indirectly, that a bidder,
2 offeror, contractor, or subcontractor is required to enter into or adhere to a project labor agreement.

3 (c) A term, clause, or statement that rewards or punishes a bidder, offeror, contractor, or 4 subcontractor for becoming or remaining, or refusing to become or remain a signatory to, or for 5 adhering or refusing to adhere to, a project labor agreement.

6 (d) Any other provision dealing with project labor agreements.

7 II. This section shall not:

8 (a) Prohibit a governmental entity from awarding grants, tax credits to an applicant, or 9 contract to a bidder, contractor, or subcontractor who enters into or who is party to an agreement
10 with a labor organization, if being or becoming a party or adhering to an agreement with a labor
11 organization is not a condition for award of the contract and if the governmental entity does not 12 discriminate against a bidder, contractor, or subcontractor in the awarding of that contract based 13 upon the status as being or becoming, or the willingness or refusal to become, a party to an 14 agreement with a labor organization.

15 (b) Prohibit a bidder, contractor, or subcontractor from voluntarily entering into or 16 complying with an agreement entered into with one or more labor organizations in regard to a 17 contract with a governmental entity.

18 (c) Prohibit employers or other parties from entering into agreements or engaging in any 19 other activity protected by the National Labor Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. sections 151 to 169.

20 (d) Interfere with labor relations of parties that are left unregulated under the National 21 Labor Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. sections 151 to 169.

22 (e) Prohibit a governmental agency from including other wage and benefit requirements 23 as part of the bid specifications, project agreement, or other controlling documents for the 24 construction project.

25 21-I:86-c Exemptions. The head of a governmental entity may exempt a particular project,
26 contract, or subcontract from any requirement of this subdivision if the governmental unit finds,
27 after public notice and a hearing, that special circumstances require an exemption to avoid an 28 imminent threat to public health or safety. A finding of special circumstances under this section
29 shall not be based on the possibility or presence of a labor dispute concerning the use of contractors 30 or subcontractors who are non-signatories to, or otherwise do not adhere to, agreements with one or 31 more labor organizations or concerning employees on the project who are not members of or affiliated 32 with a labor organization.

33 3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect 30 days after its passage.

Who is neutral on the bill: None.

Summary of testimony presented in support:

Senator Kevin Avard

Senate District 12

- Senator Avard said that passing SB 55 would preserve the standing practice of how construction in New Hampshire is done.
- SB 55 would make it so that the government cannot require or prohibit project labor agreements (PLAs) as a condition of working on a government construction project. Senator Avard said that SB 55 leaves the PLA decision up to the contractor on the project.
- Senator Avard said that PLAs require union laborers to be used on projects, union hiring halls for hiring for projects, union apprentices on projects, and payment into union benefits systems and pension plans.
- Senator Avard said that 95% of the workforce in New Hampshire are non-union workers. He said that PLAs limit the workforce available for contractors and penalizes those who use non-union workers.
- Senator Avard said that SB 55 ensures that the government cannot mandate nor prohibit PLAs for publicly funded projects. He said that PLAs can be used if it is believed that using a PLA will bring in qualified laborers.
- Senator Avard said that SB 55 leaves work decisions up to the contractors. He said that union contractors can use union labor and merit shop contractors can use merit shop labor.
- Senator Prentiss asked if there is currently a requirement to use PLAs or if there is a current issue regarding PLAs for government contracted projects.
 - Senator Avard said that merit shops asked him to file SB 55. He said that there may have been a PLA issue in the past.
- Senator Carson said that SB 55 references “government” and asked what that meant – if it meant the State government, municipal governments, the federal government, or all of the above. She said that the General Court has no authority over federal contracts.
 - Senator Avard said that he understood SB 55 to apply to the State government.
- Senator Carson asked if SB 55 did not apply to municipal contracts.
 - Senator Avard said that it was his understanding that SB 55 would not apply to municipal governments.

Joshua Reap

CEO, Associated Builders and Contractors of NH/VT

- Mr. Reap said that the Associated Builders and Contractors (ABC) has 250 members in construction and other firms. He said that the ABC develops people, practically, to be better for the community. He said that ABC members have built churches, schools, hospitals, etc.
- Mr. Reap said that he supports open, competitive bidding for contracts.
- Mr. Reap said that a government-mandated PLA is a pre-hire condition. He said that under a PLA a requirement may be not to strike or walk off of a job.
- Mr. Reap said that 95% of the New Hampshire workforce is merit shop based. He said that PLAs limit options for government contracts and leave out merit shop workers.
- Mr. Reap said that in 2012 the federal Department of Labor used a PLA for the Jobs Corp center in Manchester. He said that the project attracted three bidders from out of New Hampshire. He said that the costs ranged from $38 million to $41 million. Mr. Reap said that the project was withdrawn and put up for bidding again without a PLA. He said that the new bid had nine bidders with a lowest bid of $32 million, saving $6 million.
- Mr. Reap said that President Biden’s administration likely will promote PLAs. He said that passing SB 55 would protect New Hampshire.
- Senator Carson asked about the use of the word “government”. She said that there needs to be clarity on what it means. She questioned whether or not the General Court should be telling political subdivisions how to contract for their construction. She pointed out that the example of a PLA Mr. Reap provided was a federal contract.

- Mr. Reap said that he used the federal example of the Manchester Job Corps center because PLAs don't often come up in New Hampshire. He said that he was concerned about someone sitting at a desk in a State agency making a decision on how to manage a project that will add costs and inefficiencies.

Tom Heaney

Executive Vice President, Novel Ironworks

- Mr. Heaney said that Novel Ironworks employs over 100 people and has been in business for 65 years. He said that they are based in Greenland and provide services across New England.
- Mr. Heaney said that Novel Ironworks safely builds projects on time and on budget and treats employees like family.
- Mr. Heaney said that SB 55 exemplifies that manner in which New Hampshire companies conduct business.
- Mr. Heaney said that Novel Ironworks does not bid on PLA projects because they require contractors to recognize third party labor halls as the representatives of their employees. Novel Ironworks' employees don't belong to unions because they do not need to.
- Mr. Heaney said that most companies in New Hampshire are merit shops. He said that there are few, if any, in-state bidders on PLA projects. He said that they result in higher prices for taxpayers.

Doug Knott

Knott's Land Care

- Knott's Land Care was founded in 2004 and takes both private and municipal jobs.
- Mr. Knott said that he prefers not to have a government mandate on how to complete his work. He said that PLAs mostly apply to him when working through a general contractor.
- Mr. Knott said that SB 55 would protect a fair process. He said that PLAs are a corrupt bidding process, adding costs, shutting out merit shops, and limiting competition, which puts the quality of the work into question.

Gary Thomas

Northpoint Construction Management

- Mr. Thomas said that he does work in both New Hampshire and Massachusetts. He said that he does work on municipal buildings.
- Mr. Thomas said that local companies and local workforces lead to more work with limited tax dollars.
- Mr. Thomas said that each employer has to meet certain standards in order to be licensed. He said that he hires good, comparable employees and offers benefits including 401(k)s.
- Mr. Thomas said to allow each contractor to decide who, and how, to hire for a project.

Joel Pickering

Devon Plumbing and Heating

- Mr. Pickering said that Devon Plumbing and Heating has been around since 1974 and has about 150 employees.
- Mr. Pickering said that he has done a fair amount of both public and private work.
- Mr. Pickering said that the government should not be involved in mandating PLAs. He said that the best course of action is to allow contractors to decide their own workforces.
- Mr. Pickering said that there is not a benefit to companies or workers in PLAs.

Kyle Reagan

DECCO

- Mr. Reagan said that he has 200 employees, most of whom live in New Hampshire, and does work across New England. He said that DECCO offers good benefits and develops the local labor force.
- Mr. Reagan said that he supports any bill that works to promote a fair and open competitive process.

Gary Abbott – Provided Written Testimony

Executive Vice President, Associated General Contractors of New Hampshire (AGC)

- Mr. Abbott said that he has always been in support of fair and open competition. He submitted to the committee a position paper as well as a white paper on PLAs produced by the Associated General Contractors of America.
- Mr. Abbott said that it is easy to support SB 55. He reiterated previous comments about the number of union workers in the state. He said that AGC represents both union and merit shops.
- Mr. Abbott said that PLAs have come up twice recently. The first was the Jobs Corps center in Manchester and the second was a wastewater treatment plant in Portsmouth. Mr. Abbott said that he opposed PLAs on both projects. He said that there have not been PLAs in New Hampshire for State projects.
- Mr. Abbott said that 25 other states have language similar to SB 55. He said that he supports the current language that applies to both State and municipal governments. He said that in either case SB 55 was good legislation.
- Mr. Abbott said that the State should not give preference to one part of the market over another. He said that PLAs are not about residency requirements for workers or the qualification of the contractor as there are already prequalification requirements.

Ronald Ciotti

Attorney, Hinkley Allen, Manchester

- Mr. Ciotti said that he was not speaking as a lobbyist, but as a taxpayer. Mr. Ciotti said that he is a construction attorney and only does commercial construction.
- Mr. Ciotti said that he is on the board of AGC, ABC, and NH Good Roads, the three largest construction associations in New Hampshire.
- Mr. Ciotti said that SB 55 is fair to both sides. He said that PLAs are unfair and that anyone can argue a political side. He said that he wants to keep things open and free but there is an ability under the law to block a merit shop from bidding on a project by including a PLA. Mr. Ciotti said that SB 55 is pro-New Hampshire and allows all entities to have the right to bid for a project.

- Mr. Ciotti said that any open bidding process leads to better bids, better opportunities, and more savings.
- Referencing Senator Ricciardi's question to Mr. Clegg, he said that the use of "shall not" on Page 2, Line 7 precludes any concerns over prevailing wages.
- Mr. Ciotti said that SB 55 was a well written bill.

Summary of testimony presented in opposition:

Paul Grenier – Provided Written Testimony

Mayor of Berlin, Coos County Commissioner

- Mayor Grenier provided three examples of construction projects in Berlin and Gorham between 2007 and 2012.
- The first example was the Walmart Super Center in Gorham. Mayor Grenier said that the contractor brought in out-of-state and out-of-country laborers. He said that there were two occasions when either Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) or the Gorham Police Department arrested undocumented workers. He said that not one local person was hired for the project.
- The second example was the federal prison in Berlin. Mayor Grenier said that it was not a PLA project. He said that although there were some workers from the local area, the vast majority were out-of-state employees. He said that after the project ended, so did the work and its effects.
- The third example was the construction of a biopower plant in 2010. Mayor Grenier said that this was a PLA project between the New Hampshire Building Trades Council (NHBTC) and the developer. He said that the NHBTC created a local apprenticeship program for kids in the area. He said that there were 30 or 40 kids involved with the apprenticeship program and many are still involved in the trades and live and work in Berlin.
- Mayor Grenier said that there has been a long-term, positive outcome from PLA projects in Berlin.
- Mayor Grenier recommended killing SB 55, allowing the status quo to continue without government interference.

Cordell Johnston

Government Affairs Counsel, New Hampshire Municipal Association (NHMA)

- Mr. Johnston said that he opposes SB 55 as drafted for the reasons Senator Carson has indicated. He said that if the State wants to impose restrictions on itself, that is fine. But SB 55 as written would apply to municipalities. Mr. Johnston said that although Senator Avard said he understood the bill to apply only to State contracts, as written the language applies to municipalities.
- Mr. Johnston said that contracting parties should be left up to the municipalities.
- Mr. Johnston said that NHMA opposes any bill to restrict local control regardless of which direction the policy is coming from.
- Mr. Johnston said that he is not aware of any city or town that uses PLAs or that plans to use PLAs. He said that the issue is not a practical concern. He said that as a matter of principle the issue should be left to cities and towns to decide.

- Mr. Johnston said that if the language applying to political subdivisions was removed, NHMA would have no issue with the bill.

David Pelletier

Plumbers and Pipefitters Local Union 131

- Mr. Pelletier said that in his 30 years of involvement with Local Union 131 he has never seen a State bid with a PLA. He said that New Hampshire awards contracts to the lowest qualified bidders. He added that he supports fair and open competition.
- Mr. Pelletier asked why, with many other pressing issues affecting New Hampshire, the General Court was entertaining SB 55 and recommended it be found inexpedient to legislate.

Robert Clegg – Provided Written Testimony

Former State Senator, Senate District 14

- Mr. Clegg said that he is not a union contractor but he does use agreements that may put him in jeopardy for tax credits and tax abatements if SB 55 were to pass. He said that he doesn't allow immigrant labor or lower payments for the same job, and that he requires people be treated how he would have liked to have been treated.
- Mr. Clegg said that his biggest competitor is a contractor who bids low but doesn't pay for materials.
- Mr. Clegg said that when he was in the General Court, a big problem were contractors from Vermont who came in and outbid New Hampshire contractors because they weren't required to provide worker's compensation. Mr. Clegg said that PLAs are needed.
- Mr. Clegg said that SB 55 would affect anyone who took money from the government. He said that his agreements would be in jeopardy. He said that lawyers like to sue, and he doesn't want to be sued because of a job where he did the right thing.
- Mr. Clegg recommended that SB 55 be put into a study until the COVID-19 pandemic has subsided and stakeholders can meet in person at the State House to have a discussion over the issues at hand.
- Mr. Clegg said that smaller contractors may get together and bid as one, which requires a PLA.
- Senator Ricciardi asked if Page 2, Lines 22 through 24 conflicted with the federal Davis-Bacon Act of 1931 (Ch. 411, 46 Stat. 1494).
 - Mr. Clegg said that that would be accurate. He said that it would inhibit a municipality from taking federal money. He said that there are rules that must be followed for accepting federal money.

Joe Casey – Provided Written Testimony

IBEW

- Mr. Casey is the business development representative for New England states for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.
- Mr. Casey said that there is a procurement policy for State-funded projects. He said that there would need to be a change in the State's procurement policy, enacted by the General

Court, to put a PLA in place.

- Mr. Casey referenced his written testimony regarding the use of a PLA for the Jobs Corps center in Manchester. In summary, the federal Department of Labor had a firm conduct a study about which states to use a PLA in. The study determined that New Hampshire was a state where a PLA should be used. After a couple of months on the Jobs Corps project, Mr. Casey reviewed the payroll to ensure that the PLA was being followed. After an investigation it was determined that because of the geography of the site the wage structure was changed from “building” classification to “heavy” classification, resulting in an $8 difference in wages for the civil workers. Mr. Casey said that two years later a federal investigation determined that there was no right for the wage structure to be changed, which led to the cost difference between the bids and led to workers getting hurt.
- Mr. Casey said that a PLA is a tool that can be used or cannot be used. He said that if a town wants to sign a PLA requiring local kids to be brought in for an apprenticeship program, they can do that. He said that that was what happened with the Berlin project Mayor Grenier mentioned.
- Senator Reagan asked for clarity on the issue of apprenticeships. He asked if apprenticeship programs weren’t allowed currently or wouldn’t be allowed under SB 55.
 - Mr. Casey responded that a project can either have apprentices or not. With a PLA, Mr. Casey said that there could be a requirement that the apprentices be local rather than from North Carolina or South Dakota. Mr. Casey said that there would need to be a PLA for that.

Rebalancing for Out-of-Area Contractors Working In The Jurisdiction

The electrical contractor labor hours shown in this section are used to determine the percentage of employment and wages (union and non-union) that were reported by firms domiciled outside the local union's county jurisdiction. The Out-of-Area percentage is shown on the market share calculation sheets, line "2b) i. Employment/Wages In Jurisdiction From Out-of-Area Contractors." Since labor hours are available only for union contractors, the market share methodology assumes that out-of-area non-union contractors travel for work into the jurisdiction at the same rate.

The table below shows the local union's percentage breakdown of labor hours by where its contractors are domiciled. The labor hours by individual contractor are listed on the pages that follow.

In support of Senate Bill 55, relative to project labor agreements in government contracts

January 27, 2021

The Associated General Contractors of NH (AGC of NH) strongly supports Senate Bill 55, which provides that the government shall not require participation in a project labor agreement (PLA) as a condition of participating in a government construction project.

The association's membership in New Hampshire is 95% open shop and 5% union, which is also an accurate reflection of the NH marketplace. Mandating PLAs in the state would limit the number of qualified and capable local contractors and drive up costs.

AGC is committed to free and open competition in all public construction markets and believes that publicly financed contracts should be awarded based on qualifications rather than the labor practices of individual companies. Government-mandated PLAs typically require contractors to make fundamental and often costly changes in the way they do business, such as adopting different work rules, hiring practices, and wages and benefits, as well as restraining their ability to use their current employees on the projects. The end result is a reduced number of potential bidders and competition, which can lead to increased costs to the government and the taxpayers.

Attached is an AGC of America white paper on the history of PLAs and factors to consider.

AGC of NH requests that the committee consider the economic risks of PLAs and vote in support of SB 55.

Respectfully submitted,

Gary Abbott
Executive Vice President

THE HISTORY OF GOVERNMENT MANDATED LABOR AGREEMENTS IN THE CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY

How Public Officials and Their Representatives Have Changed The Purposes and Effects of Construction Project Labor Agreements

What are Construction Project Labor Agreements?

Project labor agreements are unique to the construction industry. Unlike collective bargaining agreements between other industrial employers and their unions, collective bargaining agreements in the construction industry usually apply only to work performed by signatory contractors in specified counties or other well-defined geographic areas. Project labor agreements are even more specialized and focus on one particular construction project. They are often referred to as “prehire” agreements because they are usually negotiated between construction contractors and one or more building trade union in advance of submitting a bid for the project, and before anyone is actually hired to perform the work:

The terms and conditions of a project labor agreement generally: (1) apply to all work performed on a specific project or at a specific location, (2) require recognition of the signatory union(s) as the exclusive bargaining representatives for covered workers, whether or not the workers are union members, (3) supersede all other collective bargaining agreements, (4) prohibit strikes and lockouts, (5) require hiring through union referral systems, (6) require all contractors and subcontractors to become signatory to the agreement, (7) establish standard work rules, hours and dispute resolution procedures and (8) establish wages and benefits. When the project is completed, neither the employer nor the union(s) have any further obligations to each other under the agreement.

What is the History of These Agreements?

Project labor agreements were conceived and originated by construction employers and building trade unions within the context of the collective bargaining that they regularly engage in. The necessity and utility of a project labor agreement were decisions made by employers and unions. Likewise, their negotiation was between, and at the option, of construction employers and building trade union representatives. Project labor agreements were intended to address specific problems either created or left unresolved by local area collective bargaining agreements with individual crafts, and date to a time when union construction dominated the national construction market.

Historically, contractors and unions have used project labor agreements for major projects of extended duration that require large numbers of many different crafts. For instance, in the federal sector project labor agreements were used for the construction of the Grand Coulee Dam in Washington State in 1938 and the Shasta Dam in California in 1940. During and after World War II, many large atomic energy and defense construction projects used project labor agreements for these reasons as well. The practice was more common when unions represented the majority of construction workers. For example, in 1947 unions represented 87.1 percent of all construction workers. In 1973, unions represented 40.1 percent. However, in 1999 unions represented only 19.6 percent of the construction work force and the necessity and utility of project labor agreements as a competitive vehicle has diminished along with union representation in the industry.

It should also be noted that the industry has never universally supported project labor agreements as a means of enhancing competitiveness. Many contractors and subcontractors and their associations invest a great deal of time and resources to negotiate local area collective bargaining agreements with the individual building trade unions in their market. These agreements apply to all the work performed in a defined geographic area by the signatory contractors for the duration of their term, typically 3 years. They address all the terms and conditions included in project labor agreements, as well as circumstances unique to the local market.

Project labor agreements, by definition, are project-specific, with terms and conditions that are frequently different from those found in local agreements. Contractors and subcontractors competing for work on the basis of local agreements can be at a disadvantage. In addition, the terms and conditions of the project labor agreement can negatively impact negotiations on local agreements. The more frequently project labor agreements are used in an area, the less utility local collective bargaining agreements have. The incentive for their negotiation and execution frequently declines accordingly. Many construction labor and management representatives believe that the key to improving the competitiveness of the union sector of the industry is to improve the terms and conditions of local area collective bargaining agreements, and avoid unique and separate agreements that often undermine these agreements.

What Has Happened to These Agreements?

In many instances, project labor agreements remain what they have always been; i.e., privately initiated and negotiated agreements to be applied to public or private construction projects. Unfortunately, in many other instances public officials have either misunderstood or distorted their purposes and effects. While giving lip service to traditional project labor agreements, many public officials are now attempting to use them for something quite different.

Many public officials are using government mandated labor agreements (GMLAs) as a substitute for sound project management and contract drafting to achieve objectives traditionally, and better addressed, in contract specifications. This distortion of the private nature of project labor agreements and their objectives seeks to transform private contractual arrangements into a public mandate. In addition, GMLAs are sometimes used to achieve on behalf of the unions what they have been unable to accomplish on their own. By mandating union membership for all workers employed on a GMLA project as well as that all contractors and subcontractors become signatory, unions are spared from the necessity of demonstrating the merits of union membership to employees or convincing employers that being signatory to union agreements can be competitively advantageous.

What are the Different Purposes of the Traditional Agreements and the Government Mandates?

The traditional objective of a project labor agreement is to enhance the competitive posture of the signatory contractor with respect to a specific project. An agreement unique to the project may be preferable because the local collective bargaining agreements that would otherwise apply to the work for signatory contractors contain terms and conditions that are not as cost-effective as those used by competitors. Negotiations are usually initiated by the contractor, but sometimes by the union(s), before a bid is formulated. To improve their competitive position and secure the work for their companies and members, contractors and unions engage in what is often called "concession bargaining." This may include modification of the terms and conditions of existing local agreements to create an agreement unique to the project, or it may include the negotiation of entirely new terms and conditions. If an acceptable agreement is concluded, it becomes the basis for a contractor's bid and controls the performance of the work if the contractor is awarded the project.

GMLAs purport to have the same objectives; i.e., to reach an agreement that will create cost efficiencies on public construction that cannot be achieved by open competition between contractors using local collective bargaining agreements and open shop contractors. However, the market characteristics that require such a dramatic departure from the open competitive bidding procedures traditionally used to award public construction contracts, and usually mandated by law, are rarely explained or documented. Instead, GMLAs are often motivated by political considerations, not economic factors, and frequently substitute government representatives for experienced construction industry negotiators to arrive at the agreement. GMLAs executed under these circumstances are often used more as a vehicle to reward supportive building trade unions than as a means to achieve the most cost-effective expenditure of taxpayer dollars.

What are the Different Effects of Government Mandated Labor Agreements vs. Traditional Project labor Agreements

Impact on Collective Bargaining

In the practice associated with traditional project labor agreements, contractors and/or subcontractors and building trade unions mutually decide whether a project labor agreement is appropriate for a particular project. If the parties agree, they then negotiate mutually acceptable terms and conditions to be used as the basis for bidding and performing the work. However, a government mandated labor agreement (GMLA) is not optional and is often motivated by political considerations.

Because of their mandatory character and the inexperience of those often negotiating their terms, GMLAs on publicly funded construction can impact local collective bargaining. GMLAs frequently set patterns and establish precedents for the industry that do not exist in the private market. Unions can be put in a position to insist that contractors accept the terms and conditions of GMLAs for private work. Contractors will find it difficult to refuse these demands when a substantial portion of the union work force is employed on construction subject to GMLAs. In this type of market, there are few disadvantages to unions of a strike directed at work not subject to a GMLA, since GMLA work can continue to employ the bulk of the union work force. In areas where these projects constitute a significant volume of the work, government mandates for these agreements will seriously compromise local employers in the negotiation of local area labor agreements.

Impact on Competition

A GMLA can significantly increase the cost of a project for open shop contractors by eliminating the flexibility to employ multi-skilled and semi-skilled personnel and to deploy them accordingly. The effects of these inefficiencies are compounded by the requirement that the majority of the work force be referred through union hiring halls. Typically, the employer is permitted to select the first 5 or 10 nonsupervisory employees. Additional employees must be referred by the appropriate union hiring hall. Under the criteria used by most hiring halls, craft workers who are not members of the union are not likely to be referred to the project. Contractors on GMLA projects are thus working with a largely unfamiliar labor force.

In addition, a GMLA typically causes open shop contractors to incur new expenses and operate less efficiently by subjecting them to other terms and conditions of collective bargaining agreements that would not be required under the operation of the Davis-Bacon Act, or most other prevailing wage laws that typically apply to publicly funded construction work. These terms and conditions include overtime for more than 8 hours of work in a day, travel time, "show-up" pay, supervisor or crew size minimums, as well as others. For example, the mandatory union benefit fund contributions normally required by GMLAs force contractors that provide employee benefits in a different fashion to (1) suspend those benefits, (2) to pay twice or (3) simply decline to work on the project. In addition, most employees that are not members of the GMLA signatory union(s) before starting work on the project will not qualify for the benefits because of time-based vesting and eligibility requirements. In fact, some employees may actually lose some or all of their benefits. These factors increase the cost of the project significantly and prevent many qualified, economical open shop contractors, as well as union contractors that are not already contributors to the GMLA signatory unions' benefit plans -- especially small businesses -- from bidding on the project.

Likewise, a GMLA can increase the cost of the project for the union contractor. Rather than bidding and performing work on the project based on the costs related to the terms and conditions the contractor has agreed upon with its signatory unions, upon substantial investments of time and resources over years of negotiations, the contractor under a GMLA is subjected to the costs of new terms and conditions often with different and more numerous unions. This can create jurisdictional disputes that would not otherwise exist. Because contractors are not usually given an opportunity to participate in the negotiations for a GMLA, there is no opportunity to harmonize the terms of different contracts to achieve a cost-efficient outcome. Moreover, even when included in the negotiations, the contractor has little bargaining leverage once the public agency has decided that a GMLA will be used. Knowing that a deal must be struck as a condition of the construction contract, the unions are in a position to demand and hold out for costly wages (above applicable prevailing wage standards), hours and other terms and conditions.

Faced with these uncertainties, many contractors will simply decline to bid on public work that requires compliance with a GMLA. Others will incorporate the estimated costs imposed by the GMLA into their bid, reducing their competitiveness or increasing the costs to the public

Impact on Workers

Workers seeking employment on GMLA projects are required to join one or more designated unions and pay union dues, or agency fees instead of union dues in right-to-work states, regardless of their preference for union representation and without an opportunity to vote on that choice. Furthermore, whether or not they are employed on the project will depend on how their experience and past union affiliations conform to union hiring hall priorities, not on credentials evaluated by employers.

Impact on Cost-Effectiveness

The General Accounting Office (GAO) was unable to document any cost efficiencies achieved by GMLAs on federal construction and, furthermore, concluded that such alleged efficiencies could probably never be documented [Project Labor Agreements: The Extent of Their Use and Related Information (GAO/GGD-98-92, May 1998)]. In addition, research conducted on GMLA projects in Alaska, California, Nevada and New York by Wharton School of Business Professor Herbert R. Northrup, Ph.D., documented less competition and increased costs [Journal of Labor Research, John M. Olin Institute for Employment Practice and Policy, Department of Economics, George Mason University, Vol. XIX, No. 1 (Winter 1998)].

Do the Differences Have Any Legal Significance?

In 1993 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled on the legality of a government mandated labor agreement for the Boston Harbor clean up project [Building & Construction Trades Council v. Associated Builders & Contractors (“Boston Harbor”), 113 S. Ct. 1190 (1993)]. The Massachusetts Water Authority (MWA) imposed the agreement through its construction manager. The Court was asked only to decide whether the MWA was acting as a purchaser of construction services, as opposed to a government regulator of labor relations, and if so, whether its imposition of the agreement was lawful.

Accordingly, the Supreme Court issued a very narrow decision. The Court ruled that public entities could use project labor agreements only “to the extent that a private purchaser may choose a contractor based upon that contractor’s willingness to enter into a prehire agreement.” That extent, in turn, is limited by the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA) to employers “engaged primarily in the building and construction industry.” The Court was not asked, and did not decide, whether the MWA or any other public agency is such an employer.

The Boston Harbor decision has been advanced by proponents of government mandated labor agreements as an unqualified endorsement of these agreements for publicly funded construction. However, the Court’s decision contains no such endorsement. Among the many federal and state legal issues left unresolved are:

- (1) Whether GMLAs have a disproportionately adverse impact on minority and women business enterprises, in violation of Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act and/or its state counterparts.
- (2) Whether GMLAs violate the construction industry provisions of the NLRA permitting only employers “engaged primarily in the building and construction industry” to enter into prehire agreements.
- (3) Whether GMLAs between an owner and a labor organization violate the NLRA prohibition against agreements restricting an employer’s right to do business with any other employer or person.
- (4) Whether the Competition in Contracting Act or other federal statutes prohibit GMLAs on federally funded construction.
- (5) Whether state competitive bidding laws prohibit GMLAs.

What is AGC’s Policy on Project Labor Agreements?

The Associated General Contractors of America, Inc., (AGC) does not oppose traditional project labor agreements. Even though they have some negative effects on local area collective bargaining, AGC strongly supports open competition and the traditional agreements have tended to encourage such competition. Without hindering other firms, or dictating labor policy for other firms, these agreements have enabled some union contractors to be more competitive.

AGC is committed to free and unrestricted construction markets. AGC opposes the imposition of exclusionary project labor agreements by public owners, or their representatives, on any publicly funded construction project. A public owner or its representative should not require the use, or negotiation, of a government mandated labor agreement that would compel any firm to change its labor policy or practice in order to compete for or to perform work on a publicly financed project.

AGC believes that GMLAs on publicly funded construction are a solution in search of a problem. AGC is not aware of any documentation that indicates that the terms and conditions allegedly ameliorated by GMLAs (work stoppages and labor unrest, uniform work rules and providing labor through union hiring halls) have materially impacted the costs or schedules of public construction, or that free and open competition without the impediments created by GMLAs are not equally effective. Likewise, there is no evidence that public resources are used in a more productive fashion by imposing the same one-size-fits-all agreement on all competitors for public works.

To the extent that GMLAs remove the free market economic forces that underlie both the competitive bidding laws and the collective bargaining process, they subvert the objectives of those laws and that process and make it difficult, if not impossible, for the public to benefit from the full competition that it is entitled to expect. AGC does not believe that this is a proper role for government at any level or a proper use of public funds.

GOVERNMENT MANDATED LABOR AGREEMENTS IN PUBLIC CONSTRUCTION: FACTORS TO CONSIDER

Questions That Public Officials and Their Representatives Need to Address

1. How is labor policy normally addressed on publicly awarded construction projects?
2. Have any publicly awarded construction projects suffered from any of the problems allegedly addressed by government mandated labor agreements (GMLAs), such as labor unrest or labor shortages? If so, did they affect the cost or completion of the project?
3. What firms normally perform the same type of project in the private and public markets for which a GMLA is being contemplated? Are the contractors and subcontractors that normally perform this type of construction union or open shop?
4. How would a GMLA affect the ability of open shop contractors and subcontractors in the area to compete for and perform work on a project subject to a GMLA?
5. How many contractors and subcontractors that normally compete for and perform public construction work are signatory to local area collective bargaining agreements with the building trade unions? How would a GMLA impact the union contractors and subcontractors that normally compete for and perform public construction work?
6. What are the terms and conditions of those local area collective bargaining agreements?

Note: It is important to know the characteristics of the market to determine whether a GMLA is appropriate or necessary. In a market dominated by the open shop sector, unions may not be able to provide the quantity of workers necessary to perform the project. In addition, many local area collective bargaining agreements already contain the benefits that GMLAs are said to provide, such as common grievance and arbitration procedures among crafts, common jurisdictional dispute resolution procedures, common work rules, hours of employment, holiday and shift provisions, and no-strike and no-lockout clauses.

Regardless of the market characteristics, contractors that perceive it to be in their best interest to seek a project labor agreement with the building trade unions in order to compete for or to perform work on a public project are free to do so.

7. If it were decided to impose a GMLA, who would negotiate its terms and conditions?
8. How would the terms and conditions of a GMLA improve on the terms and conditions of the local area collective bargaining agreements?

Note: Because of their mandatory character and the typical inexperience of those often negotiating their terms, GMLAs frequently include costly terms and conditions. In addition, GMLAs can impact local area collective bargaining. GMLAs can set patterns and establish precedents for the industry that do not exist in either the public or private sector.

9. Will the project be subject to a prevailing wage law? If so, how would the requirements of the law differ from the provisions of a GMLA with respect to wages, fringe benefits and labor practices?
10. Would a GMLA require all contractors and subcontractors performing work on the project to become signatory to it?
11. Would a GMLA supercede all other existing agreements?
12. Are the unions that would be signatory to a GMLA the same unions that are signatory to the local area collective bargaining agreements?
13. Would a GMLA require contractors and subcontractors signatory to local area collective bargaining agreements to assign work to unions with which they have no prior affiliation or experience?

Note: Open shop contractors have the flexibility to subcontract work to companies based upon cost-effective bids and performance, and to assign work according to the skill level it requires. Contractors signatory to local area collective bargaining agreements frequently have the same flexibility. In addition, many union general contractors are signatory to agreements with only two or three unions. A GMLA may require a contractor to employ the members of new or different unions, as well as comply with the wage, benefit and labor practices of as many as 15 different unions.

14. Would a GMLA require contributions to union benefit funds? If so, would union and open shop contractors be required to continue to contribute to existing funds, as well as additional union funds, to maintain benefits for their employees? Would those contractors' employees actually benefit from these additional contributions to the union funds?

Note: Most construction benefit programs require uninterrupted contributions on behalf of participating employees to maintain coverage and eligibility. Benefit funds normally have time-based vesting and eligibility requirements that must be met before benefits can be received. Most employees that are not already members of the GMLA signatory unions before starting work on the project will not qualify for union benefits because of these requirements. In fact, some of these employees may actually lose some or all of their benefits.

15. Would a GMLA require all craft employees to become members of one or more designated trade unions? What is the ratio of union and nonunion construction craft workers in the local area?

Note: Employees not previously represented by a union will be under the terms of most GMLAs, regardless of their wishes and without an opportunity to vote on their preference. This may reduce the number of craft workers that would otherwise be interested in employment on the project.

16. Would a GMLA require all craft employees to become union members and pay union dues, or agency fees in lieu of dues in right-to-work states?

17. Would a GMLA require that all craft employees be hired through a referral from a union hiring hall? How many employees would be exempt from this requirement? What would be the hiring hall registration requirements and preferences? How would the GMLA affect the ability of contractors and subcontractors to employ their regular work force?

Note: The registration requirements and preferences of union hiring halls often require that workers be referred to projects based on previous union employment.

18. Would a GMLA provoke a judicial challenge? Would it be vulnerable to challenge under federal, state or local laws? Would such a challenge increase the cost of the project or delay its initiation and completion? Would a public hearing be required or appropriate under the relevant procurement laws and regulations?

Note: Many GMLAs have been challenged and overturned under state competitive bid laws. In addition, other issues impacting the legality of GMLAs include:

- Whether GMLAs have a disproportionately adverse impact on minority and women business enterprises, in violation of Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act and/or its state law counterparts.
- Whether the Competition in Contracting Act or other federal statutes permit federal agencies, or the recipients of federal funds, to mandate labor agreements on federally funded construction.
- Whether GMLAs violate the construction industry provisions of the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA) permitting employers "engaged primarily in the building and construction industry," but only such employers, to enter into pre-hire agreements.
- Whether GMLAs between an owner and a labor organization violate the NLRA prohibition against agreements restricting an employer's right to do business with any other employer or person.

The U.S. Supreme Court decision in Boston Harbor did not address or resolve these issues.

If, after carefully considering all the above factors and other considerations, public officials or their representatives believe that a government mandated labor agreement is appropriate, the local chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America should be contacted for assistance in negotiating its terms and conditions.

Dear Senators,

I want to ask that you support SB 55 as "ought to pass." The bill ensures a level playing field by leaving project labor agreement decisions between the contractor and their workforce.

PLAs do arise from time to time and when they do, taxpayers get stuck with higher costs and open shop construction workers lose out, because not all the facts get considered. The bill would allow state and local government to use a PLA as a special circumstance, after a public notice and a hearing -a very democratic process of protecting taxpayers from nefarious actors' attempts to put on an unjustified PLA.

The bill is important to me because as an employer, I need to know that when bidding public work I can decide the best way to negotiate with my labor force to offer taxpayers the best quality work for the best possible price. As a citizen, constituent I need to know that my government -state and local- is being held accountable for how it spends my hard-earned tax dollars.

25 other states have a law like this on the books and have no issue using federal grant money to build highways and other civil projects. Furthermore, union contractors and open shop remain free to negotiate union agreements in those places, too.

The bill re-enforces the live-free approach of limited government, stating that government can neither require nor prohibit the use of a project labor agreement -it's up to the private parties that do the work.

I ask that you vote "ought to pass" SB 55. Thank you.

Subject: Statement Regarding SB55

Dear Senator Carson and Committee Members,

We greatly appreciate your thoughtful consideration of SB 55 concerning project labor agreements, during what we know is an incredibly busy time for you.

While we and the members of our respective organizations believe that the bill helps to preserve our New Hampshire Advantage of contracting and construction work, we also recognize that a few key questions were raised during the public hearing that merit further review and consideration.

With that in mind, we write today to encourage you to amend SB 55 to create a study committee concerning project labor agreements, so that the issues and questions raised during this process can be more fully discussed and resolved.

We have spoken with the bill sponsor, Senator Avard, and he supports the creation of a study committee.

We believe this will help to ensure the important policy considerations raised in SB 55, along with questions concerning them, all receive additional research and deliberation that all parties would find beneficial.

With our thanks for your consideration and your hard work.

Sincerely,

Re: SB 55

Hello Senators,

Thank you for taking the time to hold a hearing on SB 55 concerning Project Labor Agreements (PLA). On behalf of the Associated Builders and Contractors, NH and VT Chapter, we appreciate your leadership and helping to facilitate a thoughtful conversation.

However, there were some very important concerns raised by those opposed to the bill that I wanted to clarify with you directly.

Importantly, as written, SB 55 allows both local and state government to require a PLA after a public hearing, it does not violate federal Davis Bacon provisions and it protects a union contractor's right to have a union agreement.

Here's how:

Local Government Concerns

Comments during the hearing suggested New Hampshire may not have many PLAs, however, they do arise from time to time and when they do, taxpayers get stuck with exorbitant costs and hard working construction workers – nearly 90% of whom are non-union in New Hampshire – lose out.

When PLAs are proposed, like in Portsmouth not long ago, currently there is no public hearing about adding any such requirement.

SB 55 as written simply requires that if the state or local government believes there are special circumstances to require a PLA, they have to first hold a public hearing on its use.

See Page 2 of SB 55, lines 25 – 32. PAGE 2, LINES 25 – 32: EXEMPTIONS. THE HEAD OF A GOVERNMENTAL ENTITY MAY EXEMPT A PARTICULAR PROJECT, CONTRACT, OR SUBCONTRACT FROM ANY REQUIREMENT OF THIS SUBDIVISION IF THE GOVERNMENTAL UNIT FINDS, AFTER PUBLIC NOTICE AND A HEARING, THAT SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES REQUIRE AN EXEMPTION TO AVOID AN IMMINENT THREAT TO PUBLIC HEALTH OR SAFETY. A FINDING OF SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES UNDER THIS SECTION SHALL NOT BE BASED ON THE POSSIBILITY OR PRESENCE OF A LABOR DISPUTE CONCERNING THE USE OF CONTRACTORS OR SUBCONTRACTORS WHO ARE NON-SIGNATORIES TO, OR OTHERWISE DO NOT ADHERE TO, AGREEMENTS WITH ONE OR MORE LABOR ORGANIZATIONS OR CONCERNING EMPLOYEES ON THE PROJECT WHO ARE NOT MEMBERS OF OR AFFILIATED WITH A LABOR ORGANIZATION.

Davis-Bacon Concerns

During the hearing, concerns were raised that SB 55 might run afoul of the federal Davis-Bacon Act concerning federal wage requirements on projects funded with federal dollars. This is not the case. SB 55 would in no way interfere with requirements under the Davis-Bacon law that all federal and federally assisted construction projects must pay their craft employees prevailing wages.

See Page 2 of SB 55:

- SECTION II. THIS SECTION SHALL NOT: (E) PROHIBIT A GOVERNMENTAL AGENCY FROM INCLUDING OTHER WAGE AND BENEFIT REQUIREMENTS AS PART OF THE BID SPECIFICATIONS, PROJECT AGREEMENT, OR OTHER CONTROLLING DOCUMENTS FOR THE CONSTRUCTION PROJECT.

Private Union and Project Labor Agreements are Protected

At the hearing, concerns were also expressed about how the bill may interfere with the ability of contractors to utilize private union agreements or project labor agreements. SB 55 has language that expressly protects a contractor's right to use either type of agreement when they do government or government assisted work.

See Page 2 of SB 55:

- SECTION II. THIS SECTION SHALL NOT:
 - (B) PROHIBIT A BIDDER, CONTRACTOR, OR SUBCONTRACTOR FROM VOLUNTARILY ENTERING INTO OR COMPLYING WITH AN AGREEMENT ENTERED INTO WITH ONE OR MORE LABOR ORGANIZATIONS IN REGARD TO A CONTRACT WITH A GOVERNMENTAL ENTITY.
 - (C) PROHIBIT EMPLOYERS OR OTHER PARTIES FROM ENTERING INTO AGREEMENTS OR ENGAGING IN ANY OTHER ACTIVITY PROTECTED BY THE NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS ACT, 29 U.S.C. SECTIONS 151 TO 169.
 - (D) INTERFERE WITH LABOR RELATIONS OF PARTIES THAT ARE LEFT UNREGULATED UNDER THE NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS ACT, 29 U.S.C. SECTIONS 151 TO 169.

Conclusion

In closing, I wish to share a few key points to bear in mind as you deliberate on this bill

- A PLA is a pre-hire condition of participating in a state or local government construction project, requiring contractors to enter into a collective bargaining agreement with one or more labor unions as a condition of being allowed to work on a public project. They are anti-competitive, anti-taxpayer and dramatically reduce employment options for New Hampshire employers and employees – nearly 90% of whom are non-union - alike.

SB 55 ensures a level playing field by indicating that state or local government shall not require or prohibit participation in a PLA as a condition of participating in a government funded construction project.

- SB 55 ensures neutrality by leaving a decision to use or not to use a PLA to the private parties involved in a project. This ensures union and non-union contractors have equal footing when bidding on public work.
- Importantly, as written, SB 55 does not prevent municipalities from using PLAs if they wish, but merely creates a hearing requirement before the do so. SB 55 does not violate Davis-Bacon wage provisions for federal projects. And SB 55 does not prevent private contractors from using either PLAs or private union agreements.

I hope this information is helpful in addressing the concerns raised at today's hearing. SB 55 is an important bill that will preserve our New Hampshire Advantage of construction and contracting work, for the benefit of taxpayers, employees and employers alike.

We stand ready to provide any additional information or assistance you may need.

Hello Senator Carson,

Good afternoon. I hope you are doing well during, what I'm sure is, a very busy time of the year for you. I just wanted to briefly express my support for SB 55.

My employees at SL Chasse Steel, located in Hudson, as well as myself are grateful for your leadership and appreciate all your hard work on behalf of Hudson. I am reaching out on behalf of my company, to encourage you to support SB 55, as it ensures a fair and level playing field by leaving project labor agreements between the contractor and their workforce. When PLA's arise, taxpayers are forced to pay higher costs, and open shop construction workers lose out. If taxpayers truly understood the severity of their bottom line, I'm sure they would have a louder voice.

As written, SB 55 would still allow both state and local governments to use PLA's as a special circumstance, after a public notice and hearing. As a New Hampshire employer, it is important when bidding public work, that I know I have the ability to negotiate with my labor force, to afford hard working taxpayers high quality work at the best possible price.

Currently, there are 25 other states which already have laws like this in place, with no issues using federal grant money to build highways, or other civil projects. Both union contractors and open shops remain free to negotiate PLAs in those places. SB 55 simply states that the government can neither require nor prohibit the use of a PLA – allowing private parties to decide whether or not to do so in good faith with one another, free from government intervention. Please recommend SB 55 as Ought to Pass.

Sincerely,

NEW HAMPSHIRE

TESTIMONY IN SUPPORT OF SENATE BILL 55

Madam Chair and members of the Executive Departments and Administration Committee, I thank you for this opportunity to offer support of SB 55, a bill that would end mandated use of project labor agreements (PLAs) for New Hampshire public construction projects.

AFP activists in New Hampshire support SB 55 because project labor agreements, and reduced bidding competition in general, drive far higher construction expenses to taxpayers, requiring the state to raise taxes or reduce services or infrastructure projects as a result. Instead of many projects being systematically awarded to unions whose membership is only about 14% of private construction workers in New Hampshire, SB 255 would allow both union and non-union firms to seek projects on an equal playing field.

Much like prevailing wage laws, project labor agreements raise the cost of construction projects significantly by slowing completion times and raising prices above true market rates. For example, one study indicated that school construction projects using PLAs in California from 1995-2009 resulted in 13-15 percent higher costs, and another found that New Jersey school construction projects using PLAs were 30 percent more expensive and took 22 weeks longer to complete. A study of dozens of construction projects in Connecticut found PLAs to increase costs nearly 20 percent.

Today, approximately half of U.S. states have restrictions on the mandatory use of PLAs, and SB 55 would put New Hampshire in position to keep more money back into the pockets of New Hampshire families or allow more public infrastructure projects while providing services at greater value.

As New Hampshire faces the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic, our economic challenges are significant. AFP stands in strong support of SB 55, which would help relieve taxpayer burdens for construction projects in the Granite State, helping us recover in the near term and be in better fiscal position over the long term.

Respectfully submitted,

Dear Senator Carson,

I wanted to take a moment to ask that you please support SB 55 as "ought to pass." As you may already know, this bill ensures a level playing field by leaving project all labor agreement decisions between the contractor and their workforce.

Project Labor Agreements, (PLAs) do arise from time to time and when they do, taxpayers get stuck with higher costs and open shop construction workers lose out, because not all the facts get considered. The bill would allow state and local government to use a PLA as a special circumstance, after a public notice and a hearing, certainly a very democratic process of protecting taxpayers from nefarious actors' attempts to put on an unjustified PLA.

This bill is very important to me because as an employer, with typically around 45 or so employees, I need to know that when bidding public work, I can decide the best way to negotiate with my not only my personal labor force but our valued subcontractors as well. This approach would allow me to offer taxpayers the best quality work for the best possible price.

As a citizen, constituent I need to know that my government -state and local- is being held accountable for how it spends my hard-earned tax dollars.

25 other states have a law like this on the books and have no issue using federal grant money to build highways and other civil projects. Furthermore, union contractors and open shop remain free to negotiate union agreements in those places, too.

The bill re-enforces the live-free approach of limited government, stating that government can neither require nor prohibit the use of a project labor agreement -it's up to the private parties that do the work.

- There are times when union business agents speak with town officials selling PLAs as the best thing since sliced bread, but the town doesn't get the full picture. This happened on a job in Portsmouth and except by pure luck a contractor read the PLA in the bid documents did the city hold a public hearing.
- The bill does not ban the use of a PLA. It requires that state and local governments hold a hearing on the PLA so that the public can comment and all sides are heard. It's important because a PLA does more than mandate union work rules, it completely changes how the projects are performed.
- Davis-Bacon wage rates in federal grants are a separate issue from PLAs. The bill language that says the legislation does not affect the wage rates so that way we can accept federal funds for public construction.
- Labor/contractor agreements are protected. The bill specifically in the language government can't come between what a contractor and labor privately decide to do, union or open shop.

I ask that you vote "ought to pass" SB 55. Thank you.

Sincerely,

RE: SB55

My Name is Robert E Clegg and I personally oppose this bill as a private businessman and not in conjunction with any client.

SB 55 while well intentioned by the sponsor does not correct a problem, but instead creates one for law abiding contractors such as myself.

When including tax abatements, tax exemption, or tax credit you are no longer talking about a government project, you are speaking about a project taken on by private industry to provide housing for elderly, or low income, or handicap persons in a community. To determine how I can create the needed workforce, or the contracts to accomplish the creation of the project, I also need to determine the cost and examine the possibility of job site issues -which can prolong a job and result in higher costs and delays, which ultimately make what was to be a solution to alleviate the homeless problems we all see every day, a drawn out process.

In my work I regularly have project work agreements. I do not allow the use of illegal workers here, nor do I allow the abuse of legal immigrant workers who are here. I expect every person to be paid according to their abilities, and no one should be being paid less than minimum wage due to the fact that they don't know any better. I do not allow contractors without liability insurance, and I enforce the workers comp laws. I also require safety rules to be adhered to, as well as a start time for all, and a schedule they are to follow as I see necessary. In my projects, these items are in writing and the workers are required to follow them, so I believe this is encompassed in the I-(d) section regarding any other provisions with a project labor agreement and would be a violation

My agreements in NH require NH Workers comp so everyone is on the same page and no one is hiding under the 3 day rule we see so often, allowing for some to ignore the danger and pretend to have coverage. These are all part of my project labor agreements and if you can't or won't comply you don't need to waste your time bidding. This apparently violates I-(a) of 21-I:86-b of this bill

I allow many smaller contractors to join together with a labor agreement so they can bid against the "big boys". Everyone deserves the opportunity but I must see a project agreement signed by all who are bidding together so I have proof and legal recourse if one decides they don't have to comply with the rules I make for my site. Enforcing that agreement would violate your section I-(c) of 21-I:86 b of this bill

When hiring subcontractors they too would be required to sign on to the Project Labor Agreement or they can't be there. The constant issue over "independent contractors" is real and they continue to be independent until they are injured and then the workers comp fight is on. The independent contractor always seems to win and if I cannot force them to sign the project Labor Agreement stating they will comply with all the job rules then you are creating a serious and possibly devastating liability for me and my company. The law states the general contractor is ultimately responsible for those hired by anyone on the job, this bill demands I not have a labor agreement meaning you are demanding I take on the responsibility I don't want.

What do I do about Eversource or Consolidated or any other utility who has found it in their best interest to be a union shop with union agreements? I don't have a choice but this bill holds me in violation.

I am a republican and I am a business man. I vote for less government regulation not more and I can tell you I thought that is what I voted for this time. I don't need any more government help, government has done enough over the last few years.

I know this bill is political and I am well aware of what the real issue is, but that doesn't make it right. It affects me and how I do business, and it actually creates a scenario for me where I could be sued if I make people sign an agreement that they will abide by the rules I set on my job. I don't think those who asked for this bill realize just who it effects most.

Please take the time necessary to discuss what you think is a problem. Let the business owners and operators come in and tell you how it affects us Not the just the "big guys," you can see by my rules how the little guys can compete with the "big guys" with a simple project labor agreement that I can approve so they can bid as one.

I have spent 51 years in building trades from being a mason tender, to the supervisor on a high rise, to the boss of it all. It has never been easy but it has a great reward at the end of every job when there was no injuries and a beautiful project completed. I am proud to state I treat all on my jobs as I wanted to be treated these 51 years, this bill will restrict that ability.

Please send this bill to study. Make this a priority issue for when we can all meet face to face and not on a zoom call. We can fix any issue there may be if we work together. Government taking over how I run my business isn't going to work for me, and it shouldn't work for you either.

Thank you

Robert E Clegg

TESTIMONY ON SB55

JANUARY ~~26~~, 2021

Dear members of the Senate Executive Departments and Administration Committee. My name is Paul Grenier and I reside at 492 Champlain Street Berlin NH. I am a lifelong resident of Berlin and currently am serving in my 6th term as Mayor of Berlin. I also serve as a Coos County Commissioner representing Berlin. I rise in testimony to strongly urge you vote ITL to SB55, the bill that would essentially allow out of state workers to overtake any publicly funded capital improvement project in our state. The legislature should be taking a position to utilize a market based project efficiency tool such as PLAs to ensure "on time" and "on budget" results for public construction projects as well as to extent possible ensure that LOCAL workers are getting jobs being created by local tax investments.

Any qualified contractor can bid to work under a PLA on a public project. There are agreements in the public sector that allow for special accommodations that make it easier for contractors that don't normally work under collective bargaining agreements (CBA) to participate in the project. For example, some agreements will permit a contractor to bring a certain number of their existing employees to the worksite WITHOUT requiring them to go through various trade union halls. The most important item is this, anyone willing to work under the terms of a PLA is free to apply for work on a project. Federal law prohibits employers from discriminating against employees based on whether they are union members.

The big argument that opponents of PLAs increase costs, but there are a few studies done by leading academics (UCLA and CORNELL) and others that have concluded that there is simply no evidence to back up this conclusion. Many of the studies that critics of PLAs rely on fail to take into account other factors that influence a project's cost. You have to ask yourself this question honestly; WHY DO SO MANY COST CONSCIOUS AND PROFIT-ORIENTED CORPORATIONS USE THEM REPEATEDLY???

Contrary to opinions in many circles, many traditional non-union contractors do bid and are awarded work covered by PLAs. For example, Boston Harbor project, Port of Oakland and Southern Nevada Water Authority Improvement Project all had non-union contractors working on those public projects. Also, project labor agreements speak to an uninterrupted supply of highly trained and skilled craftsmen, which allow for contractors to accurately bid labor portions of work; greatly reducing the need to costly change orders.

We all are very familiar with Toyota Motor Corporation, USA, the second largest producer of vehicles in the world. Toyota's business philosophy has always been to build their vehicles in country they are sold in. You may not be aware that every Toyota factory built in the USA auto market was built with PLAs. They were so pleased with the on time on budget work of the contractors, the president of Toyota, Tetsuo Agata in 2011 sent a letter highly praising the quality and timeliness of the work saying "we could not be more pleased with the results.

My personal experience with PLAs provide me with a stark reminder of the value of keeping our locals working. Over 12 years ago when Wal-Mart came to Gorham to erect their superstore there, the contractor brought laborers not only from out of state, but from out of the country. There were some arrests for being in this country illegally, while not one single laborer from the Berlin/Gorham was hired to do the work. Three years later, Bell-Heery, a non PLA contractor was awarded the contract to build FCI-Berlin. Though Bell-Heery did hire many locals, the vast majority of the workforce was from outside Coos County. They provided work for many, but did not offer young people a chance to learn a trade. The following year, Babcock and Wilcox, with a PLA signed with the developer of Burgess Biopower, build the 75 mw powerplant. The vast majority of the labor force was from Coos County, and as part of a structured agreement with Cate Street Capital and the City of Berlin, the different building trades all started apprenticeship programs. Many 18 to 25 year olds, with little construction backgrounds but a motivated willingness to learn a lifelong skill, were hired by the union halls. It is a success story for these young productive adults, a chance they more than likely would not have been given if not for the NH Building Trades crafts.

I ask you to please kill SB55, a shortsighted bill that only fills the pockets of a few big shots at the expense of our great New Hampshire skilled craftsmen and women.

Paul Grenier, Mayor of Berlin

Dear Senator Carson,

I wanted to reach out and ask that you support SB 55 as "ought to pass." The bill ensures a level playing field by leaving project labor agreement decisions between the contractor and their workforce.

It is no secret PLAs do arise from time to time and when they do, taxpayers get stuck with higher costs and open shop construction workers lose out, because not all the facts get considered. This proposed bill would level the playing field and allow state and local government to use a PLA as a special circumstance, after a public notice and a hearing which is a democratic process and allows for both sides to present the facts and the State or town can make the determination if the PLA is appropriate for the project.

As an employer of around 165 people, I would like to know when bidding public work we have the ability to be competitive and provide the owner with a low cost and quality end product.

As a citizen, and constituent I need to know that my government, both state and local, is being held accountable for how it spends my hard-earned tax dollars.

For the record other states have a law like this on the books and have no issue using federal grant money to build highways and other civil projects. Furthermore, union contractors and open shop remain free to negotiate union agreements in those places.

The bill re-enforces the live-free approach of limited government, stating that government can neither require nor prohibit the use of a project labor agreement -it's up to the private parties that do the work.

As my State Senator for our district I thought it would be appropriate that you know my position on this bill and I ask that you vote "ought to pass" on SB 55.

Thank you for reading my letter and stay safe.

Dear Senator Lapine,

As a follow up to the hearing held on January 27th via Zoom, I want to ask that you support SB 55 as "ought to pass." There were technical difficulties during the meeting that did not allow me to provide my input on this very important item. I feel that the bill ensures a level playing field by leaving project labor agreement decisions between the contractor and their workforce.

PLAs do arise from time to time and when they do, taxpayers get stuck with higher costs and open shop construction workers lose out, because not all the facts get considered. The bill would allow state and local government to use a PLA as a special circumstance, after a public notice and a hearing -a very democratic process of protecting taxpayers from nefarious actors' attempts to put on an unjustified PLA.

The bill is important to me because as an employer, I need to know that when bidding public work I can decide the best way to negotiate with my labor force to offer taxpayers the best quality work for the best possible price.

25 other states have a law like this on the books and have no issue using federal grant money to build highways and other civil projects. Furthermore, union contractors and open shop remain free to negotiate union agreements in those places, too. The bill re-enforces the live-free approach of limited government, stating that government can neither require nor prohibit the use of a project labor agreement -it's up to the private parties that do the work.

I ask that you vote "ought to pass" SB 55.

Thank You and Best Regards,

THE COMMITTEE ON Executive Departments and Administration to which was referred SB 55

AN ACT

relative to project labor agreements in government
contracts.

Having considered the same, the committee recommends that the Bill

IS INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

BY A VOTE OF: 5-0

Senator Sharon Carson
For the Committee

This bill provides that the government shall not require or prohibit participation in a project labor agreement as a condition of participating in a government construction project. This bill does not prevent a bidder, contractor, or subcontractor from working on government construction based on their labor affiliation or lack thereof. Although the Committee heard extensive testimony on both sides, the Committee was concerned over provisions in the bill forcing the State to regulate municipal and federal contracts. The Committee did not feel it was appropriate to force the provisions of SB 55 on those other political units, where the State may or may not have the authority to do so.
