Senator Carson elected to leadership role with Women in Government

LONDONDERRY, N.H. --- New Hampshire Senator Sharon Carson (R-Londonderry) was recently named a 2015 State Director with the Women In Government Foundation by her fellow state legislative colleagues, following her re-election to the Senate.

The Women in Government Foundation is a national, non-profit and non-partisan organization that fosters a network of women state legislators from across the country.

“As State Director for New Hampshire with the Women in Government Foundation, I am proud to be part of a community of other women state legislators and local leaders with whom I can share tools and resources that aid in better serving my community. I am also honored to offer advice and guidance for other women legislators throughout the country,” said Senator Sharon Carson.

“With the support I’ve been given through Women in Government Foundation, I know I can continue to deliver strong and effective public policies that improve the quality of life for families living and working in New Hampshire.”

Senator Carson is part of a group of 1,785 women legislators serving nation-wide.
