Bradley praises passage of ramped up support of drug interdiction efforts

Concord, NH – Today, the New Hampshire Senate voted to concur with the House on SB 131, a bill establishing a cross border drug interdiction program using Fiscal Year 2017 funds.

Senate Majority Leader Jeb Bradley (R-Wolfeboro) issued the following statement:

“This important legislation will help to cut off the flow of heroin, fentanyl and other deadly drugs that are poisoning Granite Staters every day,” said Senate Majority Leader Jeb Bradley (R-Wolfeboro), prime sponsor of the bill. “We continue to hear stories of arrests made at the Massachusetts border for selling fentanyl to dealers in New Hampshire. A cross border drug interdiction program will add the funds necessary to continue fighting this deadly epidemic.”

“The opioid crisis must be fought with an above all approach including prevention, treatment for addiction and working with law enforcement to get drug dealers off our streets. I am gratified by the good work of the House and look forward to this critical legislation proceeding to the Governor,” added Bradley.
